

Most restaurant owners just accept any food contamination coverage that is added to their restaurant insurance policy without carefully understanding this important coverage. This video will help you understand which questions to ask.